Do you know the difference between ILEC & CLEC?

The ILEC abbreviation stands for "Incumbent Local Exchange Carrier" which means your local telecommunications company that existed before the market became competitive with other exchange carriers. Quadro's ILEC members include those residing in the areas of Kirkton, Uniondale, Granton & Sebringville telephone exchanges.

The CLEC abbreviation stands for "Competitive Local Exchange Carrier" which means for Quadro it's a competitive area that includes other companies that also offer customers voice and data services through landline and wireless. Quadro's CLEC members include those who reside in the areas of Lucan, Mitchell, Dublin, St.Columban and Bryanston telephone exchanges.

TECH TIP

4 WAYS TO IMPROVE YOUR WI-FI

1. Make sure you've chosen the right channel and frequency on your router. In most cases the default channel for a router is set to "Auto" but there are numerous channels for users to choose from by logging into the router. Trying a different channel may improve your signal. Call the Quad Squad for assistance in changing the channel on your router. *Additional fees may apply.
2. Another way to make sure you have quick wi-fi speeds is to position your router in the most ideal place, by keeping your router centrally located in your home or business. Place your router away from anything that may obstruct the signal to ensure optimum connectivity.
3. Ensure your wi-fi network is protected with a password on your router. This limits the amount of devices automatically connecting to your network that can cause slow speeds.
4. It may be time for a brand new router. With a household or business full of tablets, computers, smart TV's, gaming consoles and cell phones all trying to run off the same router, your router may not be able to handle the amount of traffic causing your high speeds to be lower speeds. A new router with enhanced capabilities may solve your connectivity problems.

Did you know you can now rent or purchase a wireless router from Quadro? The Quad Squad team can setup a wireless solution in your home or business and provide technical support for your router. Call 519.229.8020 or visit www.quadro.net/quad-squad for more information.
